THE ASSESSMENT OF ATTITUDES OF TOURISTS TOWARDS CITITASLOW APPLICATION IN TERMS OF DEMOGRAPHIC CHARACTERISTICS AND THE EFFECT ON REVISIT INTENTIONS

Üzeyir KEMENT\textsuperscript{a}    Murat GÖRAL\textsuperscript{b}

\textsuperscript{a}Bingöl University, Social Science Vocational Scholl, Lecturer (ukement@bingol.edu.tr)
\textsuperscript{b}Bingöl University, Social Science Vocational Scholl, Lecturer (mgoral@bingol.edu.tr)

EXTENSIVE SUMMARY

Cittaslow movement started in 1989 in Italy as an extension of slowfood. It was built by Carlopetrini. Cittaslow refers to protecting local culture elements from homogeneus effect of globalization and industrialization.

In this research data was collected from Perşembe city’s 216 visitors. Twenty four survey forms weren’t filled. So all our sample is a 192 participants group. According to analyzing data while $H_4$ and $H_5$, $H_6$ were accepted, $H_1$, $H_2$, $H_3$ were refused. Thus, attitude of tourists visiting Perşembe have a positive effect on revisit intention. Besides education and incomes of tourists visiting Perşembe have a positive effect on attitude. Furthermore marital status, gender and age of tourists visiting Perşembe have not any effect on attitude.

This result revealed that the criteria of cittaslow in Perşembe effects more visit intention beside this it has been seen significant for sustainability of Perşembe’s tourism activities. Beside of these, purposed model explains $39.6\%$ of revisit intention of tourists visiting Perşembe.